CALLS FIRE LOSS ONLY-FIRE WASTE

Bulletin Recently Issued By Insurance Commissioner Harvy Wells

"The fire loss in Oregon, most of which may be termed fire waste, is greater in proportion to the population than that in most of the states."

This rather startling statement is made in a bulletin recently issued by Harvy Wells, state insurance commissioner.

Soon after taking charge of this department, information was placed before Mr. Wells that led him to believe that the alarming increase in fires could be stopped, if the public was properly informed, especially regarding the prevention of fires.

With this in mind, the "Fire Prevention Bulletin" was issued by Mr. Wells in which fire prevention is discussed from all sides. In Oregon alone, for the year of 1914, the fire loss was over $4,000,000. From information secured by the state insurance commissioner the large fire waste in Oregon during the last year was due to five causes:

- First: Poor construction.
- Second: Great carelessness.
- Third: Lack of individual responsibility.
- Fourth: Lack of popular education in fire prevention.
- Fifth: Too much relative attention to fire fighting, as compared to fire prevention.

As a start in the right direction, Mr. Wells favors a state fire marshal law, and in connection with this law, there should be fire prevention associations, with influential business men as officers. The duty of this organization should be to enforce ordinances regarding fires, electric wiring and providing added restrictions looking to the lessening of criminal fire wastes.

The commissioner is of the opinion that a department known as "Fire Preventers" might also be a good institution, as well as a fire department for the extinguishing of fires. A man at the head of this department might make a careful study of every fire, and aid in the investigation of alleged arson cases. Even the Credit Men's association of Oregon, who have much inside information regarding fires, are endeavoring to create a state fire marshal, who shall make it his duty to investigate every fire.

Among the many causes of fires discussed by Mr. Wells in this bulletin, matches are regarded as the cause of many disastrous fires. The school children, as well as the older folks might benefit by suggestions as to care in handling matches.

Rubbish and trash are great fire producers. Paper boxes and inflammable materials of all kinds are left lying around the house or backyard. The commissioner suggests that if not convenient to burn all trash every day, each house should have a metal receptacle, with a cover, so that it could be carted away.

Asbes are another source of fire, and if there is no other place for them, a metal can with cover should be provided.

Kerosene is always dangerous. Mr. Wells suggests that the lamp should be entirely cleaned out occasionally, and when two thirds of the oil is used, it should be turned back in the oil can through a piece of cloth to filter it clean.

More than half the fires caused by spontaneous combustion originate from greasy rags. Cotton rags, assisted by scraps of silk, with alive or cottonseed oil, make a hot fire. Many fires occur in barns from hay or alfalfa, stored before it is perfectly dry, as the presence of moisture is always necessary for spontaneous combustion.

Mr. Wells also notes that bonfires are a frequent cause of fire losses. The greatest trouble with bonfires is that one is liable to have a dead fire, thinking it entirely out. During the night a wind comes up, fans the smoldering ashes and carries the embers to some nearby building or to some inflammable material.

Rats and mice are also noted by the commissioner as a frequent cause of fires. It is a pretty hard proposition to attempt to eliminate the rat but care can be taken to keep matches in a tin match box.

When there is a fire in the home, he makes the following suggestions: Get a ladder so that water can be carried to put on the roof where the fire is located. Besides the convenient ladder, there should always be standing in farm houses, a bucket of water. If the blaze is just starting, throw water on the material that is burning, not the blaze. A bucket of water will do more good if thrown little at a time. Another suggestion: Small fires may be smothered by a rug or carpet, or even with a wet broom. Fires that start from kerosene should be smothered, as water spreads the flames.

Every school child should know how to turn in a fire alarm at the fire boxes. The instructions for the ordinary fire box is as follows: Turn the handle to the right, open the door, and pull back down all the way and let go. Then wait until the firemen come so as to direct them to the fire.

The commissioner also suggests fire drills for schools, factories and other places where people congregate. Fire drills should be held in school at least once a week.

POLICE CHIEF STAYS IN
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 28.—Police Chief Lang is to retain his position, despite the fact that the city council found him guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer.

MAJOR GILL MADE THIS ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY
Lang was accused of visiting Tate's cafe on the night of July 22 when a cabinet entertainer was accused to sit at his table in violation of the cafe rules, and afterwards accompanying her to her room. GILL admits Lang was "indiscreet."

ARMIES IN THE FIELD FEAR CHOLERA MORE THAN BULLETS

Austrian division at work with modern disinfectant wagons into which they throw bundles of clothing for fumigation. Russian prisoners are assisting.

*Of all the nations fighting in Europe, the Germans and Austrians are believed to have the most up-to-date disinfection and sanitation methods. Cholera, the specter of battlefield and camp, holds greater horror to the armies fighting in the field than the bullets of the enemy.

THE MARKETS

No changes whatever are quoted in today's market. Wheat is just holding its own with an established value around 75 cents. Oats are strong, but no advance recorded. Portland is quoting a higher price for eggs, but as yet this has had no effect on the home market. Flour has perhaps struck its lowest price, as the present price is based on the low wheat values of a week or two ago.

JUDGE GALLOWAY'S BROTHER PASSES AWAY

Salem, Ore., Sept. 27.—James Galloway, brother of Judge William Galloway, of this city, died yesterday at his home in Weiser, Idaho, according to word received here tonight. Mr. Galloway was 80 years old, a native of Wisconsin, and an Oregon pioneer of 1852. He crossed the plains from Wisconsin, settling in Yamhill county. In 1865 he moved to Weiser and engaged in farming and stock raising. He has lived there ever since. He was unmarried.

High School Students Entertain At Fair

The High school pupils of Salem will give a special program Wednesday evening at the State Fair grounds in the new auditorium at 7:30 o'clock. The music numbers will be under the direction of Miss Minetta Magers, who has charge of the music in the High school. The classes under Miss Evelyn Cash, director of physical education will give several drills, and addresses will be given by pupils of Miss Ida B. Davis, department of public speaking.

The program complete is as follows: "The Mermaids" (Dyrol), High School Girls' Glee Club, with violin obligato; "The American Flag" (Henry W. Beecher), Victor Taylor; "Scottish Dance," pupils of Richmond School; "Impromptu" (Anonymous), Pauline Remington; "O Lovely Night" (From "Tales of Hoffman"), High School Girls' Glee Club, with violin obligato; "The Famine" (Longfellow), Louis Paul; "Jumping Jacks," senior high school girls.

To assist in the general class activities of the winter, which will include social affairs, Principal J. C. Nelson of the High School has introduced the adviser system in the school by which each class elects two teachers to aid them, and to take part in their winter's work. Each class elected their advisers as follows:

Senior class, Miss Ethel Rigdon and Miss Jessie Cox. Junior class, G. R. Bonell and Miss Ruby Ramsdall. Sophomore class, Miss Regina Long and Miss Mae Hopkins. Freshman class, Mrs. William Fleming and W. P. Murphy.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

John M. Scott, General Passenger Agent, Portland, Oregon.

Judge Grant B. Dimick, president of the Willamette Valley Southern, went before the county board of equalization last week with the rather astonishing request that the assessment on his property at Central Point, about four miles from Oregon City be raised, and that the appraised valuation of property belonging to Edward B. Gregory, his neighbor, be reduced. Br. Gregory's 96 acres is assessed $2,900 while Judge Dimick's farm of 116 acres is appraised for $3,450. It is probable that the reduction in the appraisement of the Gregory place will equal the increase in the Dimick tract.—Aurora Observer.
